We are delighted to invite you to our upcoming online webinar, "Teaching Higher Education (HE) Students to Spot and Combat Disinformation: Lessons Learned from the Field," which will be held online on September 20, 23 & 24, 2024, from 14:00 to 18:00 CET. This event is part of the Erasmus+ KA220 HED Project "SHIELD vs Disinfo", focusing on innovative approaches to equipping students with the tools to recognize and combat disinformation.

This interactive webinar is open to teaching staff, students, educators, researchers interested in enhancing their teaching practices and contributing to their professional development. It will provide a comprehensive overview of curriculum methodology design to empower students to combat disinformation—a key challenge of our times.

What to Expect: Throughout the three days, you will engage with experts who will share insights and experiences from the field, focusing on curriculum design, a structured approach to teaching students how to identify and counteract disinformation.

A certificate of attendance will be provided to all participants who complete the webinar.

Registration:
